

EPDM Roofing Technology Conference

Architects, specifiers, building facility managers, project managers, roofing estimators and other interested professionals should consider ERA as a valuable resource in their continuing education programs.

Industry leaders affiliated with ERA can provide presentations that include the most up-to-date and innovative trends in the roofing industry. The topics are determined by marketplace and are customized to the specific needs of the audience and geographic location. All printed materials are updated yearly to reflect current industry philosophies, techniques and progress.

ERA will work with your local professional chapter to enable participants to earn continuing education credits, when possible.
